ed, our departure from Lhassa is likely to be the signal for a conflict of political factions that will involve the Bu e in confusion. The Dalai Lums is reported as still hanging on the outskirts of the Mongolian desert near Nagchuka, and is likely to return. He still commands the loyalty of a very considerable body of monks. The Sers Monastery, which contains 68,000 lamas, is known to support him. Gaden Monastery, though containing a party devoted to his cause, comprises a large faction supporting the deposed Shata Shape, whose, family is most influential. The present Council, who recently concluded the negotiations, are not strong men and may throw in their lot with the Dalai Lama. We hear of troops massed to the north-west on the horder of the Chang-tang desert, also a large gathering east of Lhassa. We do not know to what faction these levies owe allegiance, but, as previously telegraphed, it is quite likely that the party will come into power which will aubvert the new conditions. Whatever party gains the upper hand, the position of the Chinese Amban is not enviable. It does not necessarilly follow, if the Dalar Lama returns, that he will repudiate the treaty. He may be shrewd enough to accept it, in which case the words 'temporarily deposed 'fin the Amban's proclamation may save the face of the Chinese, and relations continue as if the Dalai Lama had remained at Lhassa to lend his authority to the Convention. The Sanpo is now rapid.

Softness, the Fresh Tints of Health and the There is no rain. In view of the false reports that have reached home re looting in Tibet, it is only fair to state that the strictest discipline has been maintained. The troops have shown an extraordinary restraint. The large quantities of Tibetan curios sent to India have either been purchased or are legi. timate spons of war. . Part were taken from the enemy's abandoned comp at Guru in the Karo La, and part from the Niaisni and Tschen Monasteries, which were stronghly held by the Tibetans and entered by our troops after hard fighting. The most valuable and interesting arcicles from the Gyantse jong were reserved for the Govern ment. Innumerable small images were divided among the officers by the court appointed to decide the question. The great Palkho Choide Monastery was left intact, though we warned the Tibetane that no building used for military purposes would be spared. In fact, no enemy has been treated with such lenience as the Tibetans, except at Gyantse, all the produce taking on the road was paid for, Compensation was given to the villagers for damage done to their crops. This way the expense of the Army's keep falls on the Lhassa Government, who pay an indemnity, and our presence in the country has not been a burden on the agricultural population. The tarmers, peasants and traders in the villages through which we passed have been enriched by our presence. No doubt there were a few cases of individual looting during and after the protracted operations at Gyantee. These, when discovered, were severely dealt with. At Nangartso two sepoys were sentenced to two years' imprisonment for attempting to rob a monastery, another who took the ear-rings of a Tibetan was severely flogged. The Tibetane were always quick to report cases of loot, and only two petty thefts have come to notice since the deterrent example at Naugartse. It is safe to say > a single article will have been abstracted from the temples or monasteries.

> Simila, September 28-A telegram from General Macdonald dated Lisses, September 23rd, 5 a.m. says : Four Tibetans who were bringing parcels for the Mission, sent under their own private arrangements with five ponice from Gyantse, were found killed at the south entrance to the Karola pass on the 15th. It is supposed to have been done by bands of disbanded soldiers. Two men have been captured, being found in a side nullah with the ponies, and are suspected of being concerned in the deed. The Force marches this morning for the ferry over the Brahmaputra where it should arrive on the 27th. Several cases of mumps are reported from the detachment of the 40th Sikhs at Nangartse Otherwise the bealth of the Force is good and the enteric Amban and Tibetan officials paid fareweld rimits on the afternoon of the 22nd. S. is doing well, Vis Gyantse, September 24.-We lett Linasea yesterday. Un the afternoon of the 22nd the Amban and Shapes paid ceremo-nial visits to Colonel Younghusband and General Macdonald. The Te Rinpoche, the leading lama of Tibet, presented General Macdonald with a figure of Buddha, and put his hands over him in blessing and expressing his thankfulness that he had spared the monasteries and respected the religion of the country. Several speeches were made appreciative of the General's clemency and moderation, and a prayer was offered for his safe journey. The Te Rinpoche is a bonign and cultured priest and during the negotiations proved himself the most courteous and reasonable of the lamas and in various directions also his good sense was shown, in a country where these qualities are rare. The Shapes and the Nepal Resident erected booths a mile outside of Lhassa and entertained the passing officers with toa and cheroots. The utmost good feeling prevailed. Colonel Younghusband is due in Simla on the 16th. Ho leave the main body to-morrow and makes double marches. We are due at the ferry about the 26th and Gyantso shout the 9th.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

The Edwir publishes an interesting interview with a French official, who has just storned from the Far East, concerning the general situation in China, and the effect produced by the Japanese successes. Although the name of the official is purposely withheld, it is not improbably M. francois, the energetic Consul in the Yunpan dis rict.

He says that the present calm which prevails in China is more apparent than real. Strict orders from Pekin have urged the Mandarins to watch that no troubles break out. But these orders do not prevent | SHANGHAI; H. J. H. TRIPP. the Chinese being completely pro-Japanese. Every Japanese success must have an immense influence throughout the country, and overywhere throughout the Middle Kingdom the defeat of the Russians is being commented on. As Mukden is perial Japanese Navy and Fureign Navies; approached, greater interest than ever must be taken in events, and the Pekin Court Railways; In ustrial Works; Home and must anxiously await the news whether the possession of the famous tombs of its ancestors is to pass from the hands of the Russians. It is probable that they have long since made promises to the Chi falling into their hands.

Russians at Harbin.

A Mukden letter dated 30th Sept, says that the Russians have tried to buy land around the property of the railway company in Harbin. The Military Governor, Tsong Chib, of Mukden, has protested against the same. The Russians have, however, succeeded in securing the land through a certain Taotai who is in charge of the Bureau of Foreign-Affairs. Thereupon the Military Governor has wired the Peking government to dismiss the Taotai.

Russian Deeds at Mukden. A Mukden letter dated the 28th Septemher says that the city of Mukden is filled with refugees from all directions and none. of the native hotels there have vacant rooms. The charge for a room is 50 teac of cash for a month and the refugees are not able to pay the sum. The Military Governor has ordered the hotel keepers not to charge the refugees and thus the refugees are a case. Outside the palisade beyond the city wall all the cultivated fields have been trodden down by the Russians and there is no hope of any harvest for the autumn. Over 1,200 men have come from Sinming-fu to take refuge and the Chinese Red Cross Society have secured free pressage on the railway for Shanhaikwan. The number of redoubts now reach over 30 and seem to be made to repulse a tremendously big enemy.

A Spy's Daring Export. The daring adventure of the Russian soldier Volkoff, who got through the Japanese lines and returned safely after fighting his way out, is thus described in the man's own words to the Russian papers

CRICKET.

Interport Practice Match. Teams, of 14 aside composed of eligibles for the Interport team, captained by R. Hancock and T. Sercombe Smith, met on the Cricket Ground to-day. The match was set down for 11 a.m., but in accordance with time honoured custom a start was not made until considérably after 11 o'clock, in fact it was 12 o'clock before the first ball was bowled. At 11 o'clock there was one player on the ground-A. Mackenzie-and the others leisurely strolled in by twos and threes until enough players had arrived to make a start. On paper Hancock's team was much the stronger; including, as it did. a host of good bowlers. Hancock won the toss and sent in Colonel Mosse and Lieut. hit one high to Heath, who took and paced bowler, whose first ball he sent to the leg boundary.
